The Social Media and Critical Care Conference (SMACC) continues to harness the immense energy of FOAM and DasSMACC in Berlin promises to be the best one yet.

SMACC has seen spectacular growth since its humble beginnings. The Conference has grown from an enthusiastic idea into a global leader amongst critical care events. Whilst SMACC is primarily a high quality, academic meeting, the real reason behind this growth is the enormous and inspiring energy of the critical care community itself. A community that crosses traditional hierarchies, professional barriers and international borders. This is a community dedicated to innovation, teaching and learning. A community based around the pursuit of excellence in patient care, and a passion for sharing this as widely as possible.

We are excited and exceedingly proud to bring SMACC to mainland Europe for the first time. Prepare yourself for the biggest adventure yet - DasSMACC !

//a brief history of SMACC

SMACC, in keeping with its FOAM origins was established as a fully recognised 'Health Promotion Charity' and all the organising committee give their time freely.

The first SMACC meeting was held in March 2013, in Sydney, Australia. With no formal backing from any college, society or university, this Conference attracted an amazing 700 delegates from the FOAM (Free Open Access Medical education) community.

The second meeting, 'smaccGOLD', was held at the Gold Coast Convention Centre in Queensland, Australia in March 2014. It doubled in size, attracting 1400 delegates. Then 'SMACC Chicago', held in June 2015 at the huge McCormick place convention centre, attracted over 2000 delegates from 60 countries around the world!

Most recently 'smaccDUB' shocked the critical care community when all 2000 delegate registrations SOLD OUT in minutes, six months before the conference even began in Dublin in June 2016.

//what makes SMACC different?

So, why did the SMACC Conference SELL OUT all 2000 delegate registrations in minutes?

To begin with, the affiliated websites supporting SMACC represent a comprehensive list of the "who's who" in the FOAM world. The talented clinicians behind these websites have come together and harnessed their innovation, vitality and expertise to create the SMACC experience. The strong social media connections inherent to SMACC result in an ongoing online conversation, which in turn, empowers the delegate and enhances their experience. SMACC is focused on being a Conference truly for the delegates. Delegates have a say in every aspect of the meeting, including the speakers chosen, program topics, theming and styling, social events and the questions asked in sessions. This level of delegate interaction with the conference is unparalleled in critical care.

There have also been many positive lessons learned from the FOAM world, which have now been translated into the SMACC Conference. Lessons on how to engage, inspire and make critical care education enjoyable. We keep the talks short (15-20 minutes), choose the topics carefully, handpick speakers who we know can both educate and inspire, and discourage reliance on power point presentations. Of course, all the sessions are recorded and podcast to be released in a FREE series - creating more great FOAM!

But SMACC isn't just about the academic presentations. SMACC is an experience. The opening ceremony, the theming of the exhibition hall, social events, the teas and lunches provided in the breaks and the Gala night, all of which are included in the one registration price, are designed to bring the group together and enhance the feeling of belonging to one critical care community.

//why berlin?

Berlin is an amazing and vibrant city and has the energy capable of hosting SMACC. It is no surprise that it has become the artists' capital of Europe. There is an intriguing combination of grittiness, openness, willingness and enthusiasm in the Berlin community which make it a perfect destination for the FOAM community. Of course that's to say nothing of the history, museums and bars.

Berlin is also perfectly situated in the heart of Europe to springboard any European adventure.

//what's happening in 2017?

We have taken all your feedback into consideration and planned for:

- Another massive day of workshops on Monday, 26 June 2017
- Plenty of new talent on stage, in particular even more female speakers (in response to delegate feedback)
- The hottest topics in critical care
- A single stream format only featuring the best of the best!
- Our most incredible venue yet: the Tempodrom
- SonoBYTES, interrogations, rants and stress inoculation SIMS
- The continued innovation and convenience of onsite childcare (crèche)
- A bigger and better gala night (if that is even possible!)

//don't miss out!

This year registration numbers are capped at around 2000 delegates again. We believe this is an ideal size for a community meeting. Naturally, as registrations SOLD OUT so quickly for smaccDUB we will provide as much detail as possible in the lead up to DasSMACC registrations opening at 8am (Australian EST – Sydney/Melbourne/Brisbane) on Wednesday, 26 October 2016. Tune into social media to stay as up-to-date as possible and follow #DasSMACC on Twitter, Facebook and Instagram. Make sure you check out all the registration details on the website and synchronise all your alarms with the countdown timer!

We welcome everyone in the critical care community who has a passion for excellence in clinical care, and hope you'll join us in making DasSMACC another extraordinary educational event.

You will be joining internationally renowned faculty in a closely supervised environment with hands-on labs that are designed to improve practitioner competence at invasive procedures.

The lab utilises fresh, unembalmed cadavers, which closely simulate the anatomy and feel of an actual patient. Each station will also utilise ultrasound machines to further their procedural skills to the next level. Advanced multimedia will assist the learner in viewing procedures in real time.

AM

The morning labs include venous access with surgical cutdown, intraosseous access, lateral canthotomy, insertion of chest drains, Central venous access, Suprapubic Catheter insertion and advanced airway tables.

PM

The afternoon labs include IO access, Pericardiocentesis, Cranial Burr holes, intra-articular injections / aspirations, Surgical Airway, Resuscitative Thoracotomy and Ultrasound tables.

The airport is connected with the city centre by the S-Bahn (suburban train) lines S49 and S9 as well as with several AirportExpress trains that run from/to Hauptbahnhof, Zoologischer Garten, Friedrichstraße, Alexanderplatz and Ostbahnhof every half an hour. S45 and S9 take about 45 minutes for the trip to the centre, the trains take 15 min (from/to Ostbahnhof) to 30 min (from/to Hauptbahnhof), 35 min (from/to Zoologischer Garten). All trains and the S-Bahn stop at the station “Flughafen Berlin-Schönefeld”.

Tegel is situated in the northwest of Berlin, approximately 8 km from the city centre. You can reach the western city centre from the airport conveniently within 15 minutes. Apart from the buses 109 and 128 the JetExpressBus TXL connects the airport to the main train station Hauptbahnhof. The Expressbus X9 leaves from the train station Zoologischer Garten. The Expressbuses stops only at the main bus stop and is therefore a quick connection.
